Programs of Study
The master of science in criminal justice program provides a high-quality, advanced education to both full-time and part-time students. The program is well-suited to working professionals and offers evening courses and selected online electives. Professors are all seasoned professionals in their field of expertise and offer practical as well as academic excellence in the classroom. The program also serves as the basis for those planning to pursue doctoral degrees.

While the department does not require a thesis, students may choose to write a thesis by enrolling in CRJ 610 and receiving three semester hours towards the M.S.

Program Goals
Criminal justice professionals, researchers, and academicians are in a unique position to contribute to society. It is incumbent upon these professionals to:

• Become knowledgeable about the current issues and dilemmas and their complexities
• Eschew trite and superficial approaches to issues in the discipline
• Elevate and advance the discussions and debates
• Contribute to the development of thoughtful, meaningful, productive proposals and ideas
• Provide innovative solutions to the more perplexing issues in the field

To that end, the graduate program of the Department of Criminal Justice seeks to produce graduates who have developed:

• A sophisticated working knowledge of the major components in the criminal justice system
• Advanced-information literacy and research skills
• Excellent oral and written communication skills
• Acute critical-thinking skills that will effectively address the complex issues in a contemporary criminal justice system
• An open, honest, and dedicated approach to identifying and solving society's problems
• Advanced skills in making sound ethical and moral judgments

Philadelphia Campus
The M.S. in Criminal Justice is also offered at the Philadelphia campus. Curriculums for programs offered at the alternative PASSHE Center City (http://wcupa.edu/philly) satellite campus in Philadelphia are equivalent to those found on WCU's main campus. With state-of-the-art classrooms, the Center City location serves the needs of degree completers and/or adult learners who are balancing work and family obligations.

CRJ 506. Leadership/Management Strategies for CRJ Professionals. 3 Credits.
This course offers graduate students insight and understanding into the strategies and skills necessary to become outstanding supervisors and leaders. The course content provides students with the opportunity to develop personally and professionally through exploration of theory, application of theory to practice and skill development related to leadership concepts. Students will have the opportunity to practice skill sets in a classroom setting and receive immediate feedback.
Pre / Co requisites: CRJ 506 requires admission into the Criminal Justice Master’s Program.

CRJ 507. CRJ System: Contemporary Ethical Issues. 3 Credits.
This course is designed to identify and examine ethical issues among practitioners and students in the criminal justice field. Such issues include the discretionary power of arrest, the use of deadly force, the decision to prosecute, participation in plea bargaining, representation of the guilty, and the imposition of punishment.
Pre / Co requisites: CRJ 507 requires admission into the Criminal Justice Master’s Program.
Typically offered in Fall & Spring.

CRJ 508. Research Design & Data Analysis. 3 Credits.
This course is intended to introduce the graduate student to the process of social research. It discusses research concepts such as problem identification, data collection, data analysis, hypothesis testing, and the development of conclusions and recommendations.
Pre / Co requisites: CRJ 508 requires admission into the Criminal Justice Master’s Program.

CRJ 509. Criminal Jurisprudence. 3 Credits.
This course examines the complex concepts and principles of criminal law and procedure. The foundations of these disciplines will be initially reviewed, followed by a more comprehensive and incisive analysis and investigation of the difficult issues which have evolved through decisions of the United States Supreme Court. Supreme Court jurisprudence is examined and contrasted with the jurisprudence of the Pennsylvania courts.
Pre / Co requisites: CRJ 509 requires admission into the Criminal Justice Master’s Program.
Distance education offering may be available.
Typically offered in Fall & Spring.

CRJ 515. Crime Mapping and Analysis. 3 Credits.
This course is an examination of the process of electronically mapping the distribution of crime and other spatially defined data. The focus is on the distribution and analysis of crime and social services information over time relative to the relevant demographic and social environment. The goal is to teach law enforcement and related social service personnel how to create, map, and analyze data within the spatial context of the relevant community.

CRJ 522. Corporate and Financial Crime. 3 Credits.
