

ANT: ANTHROPOLOGY

Courses

ANT 101. Introduction to Biological Anthropology. 3 Credits.

Fundamentals of human biological variation and evolution, including evolutionary theory and processes, human genetics, the nature of human biological diversity, adaptation, primate biology and behavior, the human fossil record, the evolution of disease, and population processes.

ANT 101 Corequisite: ANT 101L.

Gen Ed Attribute: Behavioral & Social Science

ANT 101L. Introduction to Biological Anthropology Lab. 0 Credits.

Laboratory studies of the fundamentals of human biological variation and evolution, including evolutionary theory and processes, human genetics, the nature of human biological diversity, adaptation, primate biology and behavior, the human fossil record, the evolution of disease, and population processes.

ANT 101L Corequisite: ANT 101.

ANT 102. Introduction to Cultural Anthropology. 3 Credits.

This course introduces students to the fundamental concepts and methods in cultural anthropology--the study of humanity in all of its diversity. Focusing on how culture makes us think and act, organize ourselves, and understand the surrounding world the way we do, the course explores social and cultural diversity through a range of topics including race and ethnicity, sex and gender, kinship and families, religion, economic and political organization, and globalization.

Gen Ed Attribute: Behavioral & Social Science, Global Awareness Pathway

ANT 103. Introduction to Archaeology. 3 Credits.

This course provides an overview of methods and strategies involved in archaeological research and the interpretation of culture through the analysis of archaeological remains.

Gen Ed Attribute: Behavioral & Social Science

ANT 199. Anthropology Transfer Credits. 1-10 Credits.

Transfer Credits

Repeatable for credit.

ANT 210. Introduction to Forensic Anthropology. 3 Credits.

This course introduces the core knowledge and methodologies of forensic anthropology, a field that focuses on the discovery, recovery, and identification of human remains. Students will receive a broad overview of this growing area of research and practice within biological anthropology and of how it is applied in medico-legal contexts. In the process, students will gain an understanding of the interdisciplinary nature of forensic anthropology as well as the ethical and legal issues that are involved in this work.

ANT 213. Archaeological Field Techniques. 3 Credits.

Implementation of archaeological principles and theory in laboratory and field studies.

ANT 213 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 103 with minimum grade of D-.

Repeatable for credit.

ANT 220. Cultures of Ethnic Groups in America. 3 Credits.

Survey of the cultural history and traditions of ethnic groups in America.

ANT 224. Native People of South America. 3 Credits.

This course will introduce the student to the study of native peoples of South America after the European contact. Geographically, the course will cover the cultural characteristics, similarities, and differences among South American natives including the Amazonia.

Gen Ed Attribute: Spanish CC (select both)

ANT 230. Introduction to Primatology. 3 Credits.

The purpose of this course is to familiarize students with the taxonomy, distribution, morphology, and behavior of human beings' closest living relatives, the nonhuman primates. This course is designed to provide students with the background to take more advanced courses within the interdisciplinary subject of primatology as well as provide them with a deeper understanding of nonhuman primates, evolution, and where humans fit in the world.

Gen Ed Attribute: Interdisciplinary Requirement

Distance education offering may be available.

Equivalent courses: PSY 230

ANT 260. Artifacts and Culture. 3 Credits.

Critical exploration of the role of material items in the analysis and interpretation of human culture.

Gen Ed Attribute: Interdisciplinary Requirement

ANT 277. Sustainable Food Systems. 3 Credits.

This course, team taught by an anthropologist and a registered dietitian, examines the interrelationship of nutrition ecology, anthropology and the political economic underpinnings of sustainable food systems.

Gen Ed Attribute: Interdisciplinary Requirement, Sustainability Pathway

Equivalent courses: NTD 277

ANT 310. Human Paleontology. 3 Credits.

Human origins and evolution, including evolutionary thought, the evolution of non-human primates, and the hominin fossil record.

ANT 310 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 101, with minimum grade of D-, or permission of instructor.

ANT 312. Medical Anthropology. 3 Credits.

This course provides an overview of the field of medical anthropology, including theory, general methodology and concepts. The approach of the course is biocultural, focusing on the evolutionary and ecological bases of disease and health as well as how culture affects the definition and treatment of illness -- highlighting the interplay between biology and culture in human health and disease.

ANT 312 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 102 with minimum grade of D-.

Gen Ed Attribute: Health Humanities Pathway, Writing Emphasis (select both)

ANT 314. Biocultural Perspectives on Food and Nutrition. 3 Credits.

This course acquaints students with the field of nutritional anthropology, including its various methods and areas of focus. The overall perspective in this course is a biocultural one. Students gain an appreciation for the evolutionary and ecological bases of human diets, as well as for how culture and society affect food choice, availability, and preparation. We examine the relationship between diet and disease and the role of belief and of political and economic forces in shaping human foodways, and we explore the ways in which anthropological knowledge can be applied to address nutrition problems in the contemporary world.

ANT 314 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 101 or ANT 102, with minimum grade of D-, or permission of instructor.

Distance education offering may be available.

ANT 321. American Indian Today. 3 Credits.

Native Americans in contemporary Anglo-America.

Gen Ed Attribute: Diverse Community(select both)

ANT 322. Ethnology of Central America. 3 Credits.

Survey of the modern cultures of Central America: relationships to ancient peoples; the process of modernization in this area.

ANT 322 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 102 with minimum grade of D-.

Gen Ed Attribute: Spanish CC (select both)

ANT 324. Native People of the Andes. 3 Credits.

This course provides a comprehensive survey of the historical formation and development of the Andean society before and after the Spanish conquest.

Gen Ed Attribute: Spanish CC (select both)

ANT 327. Cultures & Peoples of India. 3 Credits.

Provides a broad understanding of India using a framework that examines the intersection of culture and society, economy, politics, and art and literature.

ANT 327 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 102 with minimum grade of D-.

ANT 329. Problems in Ethnology. 3 Credits.

Survey of the ethnographic literature pertaining to specific geographic regions. Area of focus to be announced in advance.

ANT 329 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 102 with minimum grade of D-.

ANT 330. Professionalization in Anthropology. 1 Credit.

This course supports the professional development of anthropology students by providing instruction and practice in such topics as preparing resumes or curriculum vitae, searching and applying for jobs, writing and sending professional letters, and exploring and preparing for graduate education. Class meetings will also be used for presentations by professional anthropologists and others able to provide students with a broad perspective on postgraduate career and educational options.

ANT 330 Prerequisite: Successful completion of 6 credits in anthropology with minimum grade of D-.

ANT 340. Folklore in Society. 3 Credits.

Survey of basic American folklore genres. Emphasis on folklore as process, tradition, and as an element of culture

ANT 344. Magic, Religion & Witchcraft. 3 Credits.

An analysis of supernaturalistic ideology and ritual in both tribal and civil society.
ANT 344 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 102 with minimum grade of D-.

This seminar introduces students to the cultural dynamics of city life in the era of globalization. Topics of study include globalization, the politics of urban space, informal economies, and immigration.
Gen Ed Attribute: Diverse Community(select both)

ANT 348. Dimensions of Ethnographic Film/Video. 3 Credits.

This course will introduce students to the study of ethnographic film/video. Topics to be considered include visual anthropology, ethnographic representation, and film theory.

ANT 349. Ethnographic Research Methods. 3 Credits.

This hands-on course teaches students how to conduct ethnographic research in an increasingly globalizing and digitally connected world. Methods instructed include participant observation, ethnographic interviews, kinship and social network mapping, oral history elicitation, multi-sited/global and virtual ethnographies, and audio-visual documentation; ethics in research practice will also be covered.
ANT 349 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 102 with minimum grade of D-.
Repeatable for credit.

ANT 352. Cultural Heritage: Creating and Preserving the Past. 3 Credits.

What is cultural heritage, and how do societies remember, preserve, and transmit it? This seminar-style class explores the history and politics of cultural heritage and conservation movements, examining the ways in which 'patrimony' (heritage) is used to create or contest cultural identities across the world. Through case studies, we will discuss why tangible and intangible heritage stir such emotion among diverse peoples, mobilizing political organizations, NGOs, tourists, museums, tomb raiders, and even armies to celebrate, protect, loot, commodify, efface, contest, and even go to war over artifacts and practices rooted in the past.
ANT 352 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 102 or ANT 103 or permission of instructor, with minimum grades of D-.

ANT 355. Anthropology of Tourism. 3 Credits.

This seminar examines tourism as a complex social phenomenon in which a variety of encounters and exchanges occur, and which impacts the culture, politics and economics of mobile and immobile people around the world. It provides a comprehensive introduction to the field, touching on its history, scope and methods of research associated with what is considered one of the largest and fastest-growing industries in the world. The course also uses tourism as a lens for understanding fundamental anthropological and ethical concepts.

ANT 360. Historical Archaeology. 3 Credits.

This course emphasizes the archaeological record of the past 400 years in North America, especially the Middle Atlantic region. Students learn how archaeologists utilize the archaeological record to study broad 'ism's including imperialism, colonialism, mercantilism, nationalism, urbanism, and racism. The course offers case studies for examining how the archaeological record illuminates the lives of diverse, marginalized, and "invisible" people, as well as practical research skills development and an understanding of archaeology in the public and private sectors, including cultural resources management, historic preservation, and heritage planning.
ANT 360 Prerequisite or Corequisite: ANT 103.
Gen Ed Attribute: Diverse Community(select both)

ANT 360 Prerequisite or Corequisite: ANT 103.
Gen Ed Attribute: Diverse Community(select both)

ANT 362. Archaeology of Central America. 3 Credits.

The archaeological record of Central America, covering the significant features of each culture area from modern Mexico to Panama.
Gen Ed Attribute: Spanish CC (select both)

ANT 364. Archaeology of Native North America. 3 Credits.

This course takes a topical approach to the early human cultures of North America (~13,500-1,000 years ago), covering subjects from Ice Age peoples to early horticultural societies, and from the significance of grand cultural landscapes to the development of centralized political institutions. It addresses concerns of descendant communities regarding cultural heritage and applies a decolonizing perspective to archaeological practice and the archaeological record of early North America.
ANT 364 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 103 with minimum grade of D-.
Gen Ed Attribute: Writing Emphasis (select both)

ANT 366. Archaeological Lab Methods. 3 Credits.

An overview of analytical methods used to process, describe and interpret archaeological materials. Emphasis on practical hands-on laboratory research through the implementation of qualitative observation and quantitative methodologies.
ANT 366 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 103 with minimum grade of D-.

ANT 367. Archaeology and the Environment. 3 Credits.

In this course students will learn about how archaeologists study the relationships between human culture and the natural world, and how archaeology can be applied to some of today's environmental concerns. Grounded in archaeological research, the course covers topics such as past human impacts on the environment, environmental impacts on the archaeological record, spatial modeling and remote sensing in archaeology, and human ecology, including the role of cultural memory in current conservation practices.
ANT 367 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 103 with minimum grade of D-.
Gen Ed Attribute: Sustainability Pathway, Writing Emphasis (select both)

ANT 368. Archaeological Field School. 3-6 Credits.

Application of archaeological recovery techniques through field investigation. Students participate in the gathering, processing and study of archaeological site data.
ANT 368 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 103 with minimum grade of D-.

ANT 375. Ethnographic Field School. 3-6 Credits.

This is an anthropological field school in which students gain in-depth, hands-on training and experience in conducting qualitative ethnographic research at a fieldsite, and is intended to provide students with instruction in multiple ethnographic methods and procedures as they design and carry out their own research project. In the course of their research, students will familiarize themselves with relevant social theories and will be given an intensive and interactive look at the culture and history of the people at their research site.
ANT 375 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 102 with minimum grade of D-.
Repeatable for credit.

ANT 380. Language & Culture. 3 Credits.

This course provides a comprehensive overview of anthropological approaches to the study of language, culture, and society. Topics of study include anthropological theories of language, linguistic relativity, language diversity and inequality, language shift, and the creative use of language in performance. Students also will gain experience conducting original research on the social and interactional role of language in our everyday social life.
ANT 380 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 102 or ENG 230, with minimum grades of D-.
Equivalent courses: LIN 380

ANT 405. Topical Seminar in Anthropology. 3 Credits.

Selected topics in the subdisciplines of anthropology. Topics announced in advance.
ANT 405 Prerequisite: Juniors and Seniors.
Repeatable for credit.

ANT 410. Independent Studies in Anthropology. 1-3 Credits.

Directed readings and reports in anthropology.
ANT 410 Prerequisite: Successful completion of 9 credits of anthropology with minimum grades of D-, or permission of the instructor.
Repeatable for credit.

ANT 415. Directed Research in Anthropology. 1-3 Credits.

Field- or lab-based research under faculty supervision.
ANT 415 Prerequisite: Successful completion of 9 credits of anthropology with minimum grades of D-, or permission of the instructor.
Repeatable for credit.

ANT 420. Anthropology Internship. 3 Credits.

This internship is intended to augment student learning through practical professional experiences. Student interns will gain exposure to contemporary anthropological practice outside the classroom and will be provided an opportunity to acquire new skills, develop professional contacts, and gain first-hand knowledge of potential workplaces. The internship program is designed to enhance student preparedness for a future in their area of interest within the discipline while exploring potential workforce matches. Internships can be within any of the subfields of anthropology and will vary according to student interests and the needs and opportunities of the sponsoring organization.
ANT 420 Prerequisite: Successful completion of ANT 102, with a minimum grade of D-; at least 80 semester hours of college credits; an additional 12 hours in courses in the Anthropology program, and a minimum 2.3 GPA in Anthropology and overall.

ANT 459. History of Ethnological Theory. 3 Credits.

Development of ethnological theory with emphasis on the nature of explanation in ethnology.

ANT 459 Prerequisite: Juniors and Seniors.

ANT 495. Senior Seminar in Anthropology. 3 Credits.

Discussion and supervised research designed to integrate conceptual and methodological skills. The research paper for the seminar must be acceptable as a required departmental senior research paper.

ANT 495 Prerequisite: Senior standing and a major in Anthropology.
