Program of Study
The M.A. in English offers three tracks: one in literature; one in writing, teaching, and criticism; and one in creative writing. In the literature and writing, teaching, and criticism tracks, students may choose between thesis and non-thesis options. Students in the creative writing track must write a creative thesis. The master of arts in English helps students attain a number of goals. It offers opportunities for the study of language, literature, rhetoric and composition, pedagogy, creative writing, and literary and cultural critical theory. The diverse and comprehensive selection of courses cultivates scholarly knowledge and enhances cultural literacy in an atmosphere that engages students intellectually and creatively. The program prepares students to enroll in advanced graduate programs (for the Ph.D. in literature or composition and rhetoric, for example), to teach literature or writing in secondary schools or two-year colleges, and to enter a range of other professions in which writing expertise and analytical thinking are valued.

The Certificate in Publishing is dedicated to providing high quality preparation for diverse publishing and related new media careers. WCU’s certificate program distinguishes itself by hybrid and online courses and a curriculum that can be completed in as little time as eleven months. The WCU program aims to equip its students not only with a well-rounded, hands-on understanding of contemporary publishing and digital media but also with multifaceted knowledge of publishing history and media transformations.

The Department of English also participates in an interdisciplinary program leading to the Master of Arts in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages. (See the section “Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (http://catalog.wcupa.edu/graduate/arts-humanities/teaching-english-speakers-other-languages/)”). In addition, the Department of English welcomes students who wish to take courses for professional growth and provides assistance and advice to post-baccalaureate students wishing to acquire secondary teaching certification in English.

Master of Arts in English
The M.A. in English offers three tracks: Literature, Writing, Teaching, and Criticism; and Creative Writing. The Literature and Writing, Teaching, and Criticism Tracks have a thesis and non-thesis option. The Creative Writing Track requires a creative thesis. All tracks are 36-credit, require a capstone experience, and share a six-credit common core (ENG 500 and ENG 501).

Certificate in Publishing
The Certificate in Publishing benefits from its innovative integration of media history with professional training and its incorporation of the theoretical with practical application. The required foundational course focuses closely on the effects of technological and cultural shifts on writing, publishing, and reading over the centuries. This historical perspective equips graduates with an especially rich understanding of current media transformations and thus enhances their ability to navigate and respond to the rapidly changing environment in which the publishing and media industries operate. All students complete an internship as part of this program.

Secondary English Certification Option
Some students pursue certification for Pennsylvania teaching after they graduate with bachelor’s degrees from West Chester or other universities. The Department of English normally accepts equivalent courses from colleges or universities accredited in the United States or their equivalent from schools in other countries. Students seeking post-baccalaureate certification should consult with the appropriate advisor in the Department of English to see which requirements they have already fulfilled in their undergraduate program and which they need to fulfill to get their teaching certificate. These students should also meet with their advisor in English to plan their academic progress and to ensure they are keeping up with requirements, and they should meet with an advisor in the Department of Educational Foundations and Policy Studies for information on required education courses. Students pursuing post-baccalaureate certification must meet all requirements for Teacher Candidacy and student teaching.

Instructors

ENG

ENG 500. The Discipline of English Studies. 3 Credits.
An introduction to key analytical/paradigmatic concepts shared across the discipline and to the academic skills/methods appropriate to graduate level study in English.

ENG 501. Critical Theory. 3 Credits.
Study of various methods of theoretical analysis and critique associated with the discipline of literary, cultural, and rhetorical analysis and the application of these methods to specific literary and cultural texts.

ENG 502. Rhetorical Traditions. 3 Credits.
A historiographic survey of cultural rhetorical theories from the ancients to the 19th century, with special emphasis placed on the pedagogical aspects of these varied traditions and their implications for the teaching of rhetorical literacy in the 21st-century classroom.

ENG 503. Manuscript, Print, and Digital Cultures. 3 Credits.
A course in the writing and preparing of book-length manuscripts (novels, novellas, and nonfictional) novels) with the intention of submission for publication. Also includes coverage of fictional aspects and techniques used in writing memoirs, biography, and current history.

ENG 504. Methods & Materials Of Publishing. 3 Credits.
Study of the history of the creation, production, distribution, circulation, and reception of the written work. It traces how authorship, reading, publishing, and the physical properties of texts have altered over time, the course examines, both historically and analytically, the intertextual, social, and cultural impact of changing communications technologies against the backdrop of our current digital age. This historical perspective uniquely equips students with the skills and knowledge to navigate effectively the transformations affecting the publishing and related media industries.

ENG 505. Critical Pedagogies & Literacies. 3 Credits.
This course introduces student to two complementary bodies of literature: critical literacy and critical pedagogy. Students will analyze the educational system’s role in maintaining or challenging diverse values, policies, and interests. To do so, students will ask questions about what we teach, how we teach, who we teach, and who we are as teachers: questions designed to frame the educational system socially, politically and institutionally.

ENG 508. Writing Seminar. 3 Credits.
Experience in nonfiction prose writing: discussion and development of major projects. Repeatable for Credit.

ENG 509. Writing Seminar in the Novel I. 3 Credits.
A course in the writing and preparing of book-length manuscripts (novels, novellas, and nonfictional novels) with the intention of submission for publication. Also includes coverage of fictional aspects and techniques used in writing memoirs, biography, and current history. Repeatable for Credit.
ENGL 515. Technical, Scientific, and Medical Editing. 3 Credits.
This online graduate course will provide an introduction to the rhetorical principles and practices of editing in technical, scientific, and medical contexts. Though you may not yourself become a professional or technical editor, you will most likely be asked to edit and provide actionable feedback on the writing of others. In this course, we will study what technical, scientific, and medical editing is, how the terrain of editing is shifting today, what roles editors play in various kinds of organizations, and the diverse processes used to get the work of editing done.
Consent: Permission of the Department required to add.
Distance education offering may be available.
Typically offered in Fall, Spring & Summer.

ENGL 516. Publishing and Media Internship. 3 Credits.
This internship is designed to provide onsite, supervised experience in publishing or media work specific to the student’s focus of study (e.g., editorial, marketing, production).
In conjunction with the internship, students will complete a capstone project in which they produce a paper analyzing how the internship has contributed to their professional development and a portfolio documenting the work completed. The portfolio is intended to demonstrate professional skills and competencies. You must meet with the Certificate Program Director the semester previous to taking this course to select desired placements, apply for internships, and complete the internship agreement form.
Pre/Co requisites: ENGL 516 requires prerequisites of ENGL 503 and an additional 12 credits of certificate track electives.
Typically offered in Fall, Spring & Summer.

PWP 502. Teacher as Writer. 3 Credits.
The best teachers of writing are teachers who write. This course is designed for teachers and future teachers who would like to grow as writers. This course is for teachers K-16+ in any content area. It consists of ongoing participation in a reading/writing workshop where participants experience and experiment with writing in the major modes (expository, narrative, persuasive/argument), poetry, and the many forms those modes take in the world outside the classroom. This course is designed to enable teachers to understand writing from the inside out, feel confident about sharing skills with their students, and feel comfortable facing any blank page.
Typically offered in Fall & Spring.

PWP 503. Strategies for Teaching Writing. 3 Credits.
Using The Six Traits of Writing Framework, participants will learn fresh, practical strategies for teaching writing. They will explore their own writing style and share strategies for writing instruction with peers. In this course participants will experience community building, pre-writing techniques, drafting, revising, editing, and publishing activities and will also work with a response group to polish writing and to take on the role of teacher as writer.
Typically offered in Summer.

PWP 508. Digital Literacies. 3 Credits.
This course provides hands-on technology instruction, including digital video production, web-based technology, and podcasting. These technologies will focus on current and future teachers of English or anyone interested in using technology in an educational setting.
Typically offered in Summer.

PWP 510. Content Area Literacies. 3 Credits.
Rationale and strategies for critical language experiences in all subjects. This course is designed to help the prospective secondary school teacher use effective techniques to improve students’ reading and writing, both generally and in specific content areas.
